

Does Your Family Want to Save Wild Animals and Wild Places?

Join the Earth Agents!

Help Roger Williams Park Zoo inspire your neighbors to make the world a better place for animals and their habitats. Earth Agents are families who will organize and host an event in their community to share simple ways to help our planet. That community can be friends, neighbors, a church group – however you define it. Roger Williams Park Zoo will provide training on community engagement, background on a conservation topic, supplies and support for your event-everything you need to get started!

APPLICATION QUESTIONS

Why is your family applying to join the Roger Williams Park Zoo Earth Agents?

What do you think the Earth Agents Program is? What do you expect from it?

Is your family currently involved in any community groups, clubs, or organizations? If so, please explain. If not, what are some venues/audiences you have access in your community?

All families are expected to hold an event to engage your community in saving wildlife and wild places. In the past, events have included sustainable bake sales, scout presentations, YouTube tutorials on sustainable practices, etc. Do you have any experience holding community events (such as with scouting, through school, large family events, etc.)?

What are your family's views on conservation, sustainability, and healthy habitats?

There is no fee to join the Earth Agents, but families are expected to attend an in-person kick-off event on Saturday, August 20th. Families agree to organize and host an event in their community between the dates of 8/29/2022 and 10/28/2022. That community can be friends, neighbors, a church group – however you define it! Roger Williams Park Zoo will provide everything needed to get started. Please initial that you understand and agree to this commitment.
